

CHINESE STUDIES AT VU

Valparaiso University began offering Chinese classes in the early 1990s. Currently, courses are available for intensive first- and second-year Chinese as well as for supervised reading and research in Chinese and other upper-level classes. Whatever experience a student has (or has not) had studying Chinese, students have the opportunity to study abroad in Hangzhou at Zhejiang University. Also of note is the new Confucius Institute at Valparaiso University. Established in 2008, the institute offers many resources to the campus and community alike.
