Howdy... Pardner?

Premise: The sheriff of a town in the Old West finds out that her deputy is not the person she thinks she is, and both must weigh their values for friendship and law in a trying battle of morals.

Not very long ago, the incoming class of Christ College students was an inexperienced bunch of young scholars, eager and brimming with potential, but with hardly the beginnings of a plan. Now, just several weeks later, we enter the stage having sculpted an entire play—full of suspense, humor, and a whole lotta wild, wild west! The process involved shared challenges and laughs alike as the crew worked together to build the story's world, write the script and music, create props and a stage design, choreograph the actors' every moves, manage the technicalities of lights and sound, costume the characters, compose the music, balance a budget, and of course learn and act the play. This process encouraged new and long-lasting bonds to form as the students grew in their teamwork, time management, responsibility, and most of all their pride in one another and their accomplishments together. Presented to you, our family, friends, and professors, the production that so much of our dedication has been poured into: Howdy...

Pardner?
