

CLINIC INFORMATION FOR 3Ls

CLINIC: Law 662 (See bulletin for more details)

Legal Interns in the Law School Clinic are authorized to practice law in state court pursuant to Indiana Admission and Discipline Rule 2.1 (attached - please read). To be certified as interns, Clinic students must have satisfactorily completed one-half of the academic requisite for their J.D. and have taken or be enrolled in Legal Profession (Law 220).

Enrollment in an externship and Clinic during the same semester is always discouraged and often prohibited (see below). The time commitment to each endeavor is significant and, if contemporaneous, problematic. In addition, some externships result in conflicts of interest for Clinic students (e.g. prosecutorial externships because we do criminal cases). If you intend to enroll in an externship, you must indicate as much on your application and should so advise the Clinic instructor when you interview.

It is the policy of the Clinic that a student may not enroll in the externships listed below and the Clinic during the same semester.

Students are strongly discouraged from taking the early bar while enrolled in Clinic.

Students wishing to enroll in Clinic must complete a pre-registration application at the Clinic office in Heritage Hall and have interviewed with the instructor, if required, by the end of the day on March 31, 2011. Students wishing to enroll in the Criminal, Juvenile, Mediation, Tax, Sports Law, Domestic Violence, and Post-Conviction clinics must arrange for an interview with the instructor. Interview appointments are to be made at the Clinic office in Heritage Hall.

Students are encouraged to enroll in the same clinic for two semesters to maximize the learning experience. Students may not enroll for Spring semester only, except for the Mediation Clinic.

After applications and interviews are completed, the Clinic will inform the registrar and students, prior to registration, which students may enroll in the various sections. If more students are interested than may be enrolled, the staff will maintain remaining applications for possible future openings.
